

I am writing to urge the commission to NOT loosen up the rules concerning broadcast ownership. The number of radio, TV and other media outlets that any one person or company can own should be limited, not increased. The American public depend on a diverse media as an important element in our democracy and concentration of ownership, no matter how much economic since any one can dredge up, is not in the public's interest. Considering that the air waves, both TV and radio, are own by the people, not the media giants, it is the publics interest that is most important, not economy of scale. Concentration of ownership will limit the diversity of opinions and news that is available for the public and should not be allowed to happen.
